Strategies for Writing Biographical Sketches of Your Ancestors

by Beverly Tetterton

Most of us want to more about our ancestors than just when they were born, married and died. If their life has been detailed in a full length biography stop reading here and count your lucky stars. If not, try the following sources to help you create a biographical sketch of your ancestor.

The first place to look is in local histories. Check the indices for your family name to see if anything has already been written. You may discover that your ancestor is mentioned as a member of a board of aldermen, a church leader, a property owner or even a horse thief. The following sources may be helpful:

Town or County Histories
Collective Biographies
Church Histories
Architectural Histories
Business Histories
Club Histories
School Histories

After perusing the local histories, the next step that I take is to look for an obituary. Styles of obituaries changed over the years. Early newspapers have few and they are very brief. During the Victorian period they became quite long and flowery. It wasn't until fairly recently that they were all published together on an obituary page. Veterans were usually given longer obituaries and women (also look for her father's or husband's obituary) rarely received obituaries at all. However, if you locate one, obituaries can be a wealth of information and give you ideas of where to look next. Also called death notices, the following information can be found:

Birth and Death ["he died in life's prime, at 30 years old."]

Nativity ["he made Wilmington his home for the past thirty years, moving his business from New York in the late 30s."]

Family Members ["he is survived by his loving wife, Elizabeth, of forty years.."] Modern obituaries mention next of kin.

Military Service ["he was just a lad when enrolled in the service of his country..."] Pay attention to military service. To most Americans their military service was the only time they left their local surroundings in their entire lives. Most war experiences were life changing.

Church Membership ["she played the organ for over 50 years..."] Membership is usually in the same church as where the funeral service occurred. For the folks who were laid out at home, check the denomination of the presiding minister. If no denomination is given look up the minister's name and you will find the religious affiliation of your ancestor.

Political Affiliation ["he was a county commissioner most of his adult life..."] You can bet if you ancestor was involved in politics it will be listed in his obituary!

Club Affiliation ["she was a charter member of the United Daughters of the Confederacy.."] Every thing from Kiwanis and Rotary to the Grand Army of the Republic and the Colonial Dames can be found in obituaries.

Accomplishments ["he traveled with old Kit Carson on the Santa Fe Trail..."] Unusual and remarkable lifetime achievements are sometimes recorded.

Occupation ["he was the proprietor of Frank's Fish House for over 40 years..."]

Place of Burial Obituaries often lead you to the place of interment.

Hints from cemetery records, as well as local, state and federal records will be covered in future editions of the Courier.

ONSLOW GLEANINGS

[Michael Whaley has abstracted news items about Onslow County, NC, from the Wilmington Morning Star, which appeared in the paper in 1870.1

Tuesday, January 18, 1870

NEW RIVER OYSTER - Mr. Wise advertises in this issue the receipt of 350 gallons of pickled and spiced oysters, of the Nobby brand, for the country trade, at his oyster depot at the foot of Market. By the way, Mr. Wise is putting up his delicious New River oysters in cans, packed in ice, and sending them to distant points, where they arrive just as fresh and sound as when taken from the shell. He shipped a lot, yesterday, to Columbia, South Carolina.

Sunday, January 30, 1870

New River oysters were plentiful yesterday, at from $1 to $1.50 per gallon

Friday, February 18, 1870

We received yesterday from a friend at Jacksonville, Onslow county, a club of twenty seven subscribers to the "Carolina Farmer." The "Farmer" is growing rapidly in public favor; and merchants who wish to reach the farmers and planters of this section will do themselves a service by advertising in that journal. For advertising fertilizers, agricultural implements, bagging, ties, and other articles, the "Carolina Farmer" is by odds the best medium in the State.

Saturday, March 19, 1870

We learn that arrangements are being made for a large Temperance celebration at Magnolia, North Carolina on the first of May, to be participated in by the following Councils of the Friends of Temperance. Mt. Olivet, Magnolia, Mt. Olive, Goldsboro and Emma Williams. All other councils in the Wilmington district, composed of New Hanover, Brunswick, Onslow, Duplin, Sampson, Bladen, and Columbus counties, are invited to attend.

Tuesday, March 29, 1870

We learn that, through the exertions of Col. O. H. Dockery, representative from this District in Congress, the old mail route from Burgaw via Angola to Jacksonville, Onslow County, and thence by the old Sound route via Sneads Ferry and Scott's Hill to Wilmington, will probably be in operation in about two weeks.

Wednesday, June 29, 1870

Charter of the proposed Onslow branch of the Wilmington and Weldon Railroad was presented at the Court House last evening and Mr. McMillan explained the route and its advantages. Mr. Parsley favored the direct connection with Onslow, skirting the Sound with terminus at Stone's Bay as possessing more practical advantages and profits to the city.

Saturday, July 16, 1870

The Wilmington and Onslow Seaside Railroad (in prospective) is steadily increasing in popular favor in Onslow.

The corn crop in the vicinity of the Sounds, on the route between here and Onslow, is said to be better than for several years past. The crop prospects in Onslow are said to be good, with the exception of peanuts, which have suffered from the heavy rains and abundance of grass.

We learn that an enthusiastic meeting was held at Stone's Bay, Onslow county, July 12th to take action in regard to the proposed railroad connection with Wilmington. Hon. Jasper Ethridge, Mr. J. W. Shepherd, and Capt. J. M. Wise addressed the meeting. Every man present pledged himself to vote for the appropriation of $50,000 by the county of Onslow at the election on the 4th of August.

Saturday, October 8, 1870

Through a polite invitation from Mr. Walker Moore, Proprietor of the Clarendon Saloon, Market Street, between Front and South Water, and in company with other members of the "press-gang" we were regaled last evening with some of his excellent New River oysters, put up in Mr. Moore's best style. The oysters and their accompaniments were excellent, but only in keeping with the well earned reputation of the "Clarendon" and its genial and hospitable proprietor. Well, the oysters were good, and we can only wish for MOORE of the same sort.

Cape Fear Agricultural Association Fair - assistant marshal - Jas. H. Fonvill, Onslow.

Saturday, November 5, 1870

Twenty-five dollar Reward - Stolen from my stable, near Jacksonville, in Onslow County, on Sunday night last, a Dark Chestnut Sorrell Blaze - face Horse, one hind-foot a little white and white scalds on the back. Above reward will be paid for the animal on delivery to me at Jacksonville, or for information that will lead to his recovery. - George Marshall

Thursday, November 17, 1870

Cape Fear Agricultural Fair - list of entries - Department A, Class I - one bale of cotton - B M. Barry, Onslow; Department A, Class II - sample cabbages - J. T. Edens.

Friday, December 2, 1870

North Carolina Methodist Conference appointees - Onslow - R. T. N. Stephenson.

Wednesday, December 21, 1870

As Mr. Nathan Humphrey, son of Sheriff Humphrey of Onslow County, was on his way home from this city on last Friday evening, with his horse and cart, and when just passing the eight mile post on the Topsail Sound road, two colored men suddenly jumped from the bushes on the side of the road and halted him. They then proceeded, after overpowering him, to rob him of the money in possession. They secured forty dollars in currency which he carried in his pockets, but fortunately overlooked about sixty dollars, which he had placed in his saddle bags. In the scuffle which ensued when they first seized him, one of the robbers cut Mr. Humphrey across the breast with a knife, the blade penetrating his overcoat, vest and two shirts, and grazing the skin but luckily he escaped without material injury. His horse took fright during the melee, which caused the robbers to retreat to the bushes, which fact saved him, probably, from further loss and injury at their hands. He was about one-half mile behind three or four other carts going in the same direction, which he did not overtake until they reached the regular feeding place. Mr. Humphrey has no idea who the parties were. This is the first case of hiway robbery in this vicinity that we have been called upon to record in some time, and we hope that the perpetrators may be discovered and brought to justice.

ONE LAST WORD.. .

THE HEAVIEST MAN ON RECORD

Miles Darden, probably the largest man on record, born in North Carolina, died in Henderson County, Tennessee, January 23, 1857. He was seven feet nine inches high, and in 1845, weighed 871 pounds. At his death, his weight was a little over 1,000 pounds. Until 1843, he was active and lively and was able to labor, but from that time was obliged to stay at home or be hauled about in a two-horse wagon. In 1839, his coat was buttoned around three men, each of them weighting more than 300 pounds, who walked together in it across the square at Lexington. In 1850, it required 13 ½ yards of cloth one yard wide to make him a coat. His coffin was eight feet long, 35 inches deep, 32 inches across the breast, 18 inches across the head and 14 inches across the feet, and 25 yards of black velvet was requisite to cover the siees and lid. He was twice married and his children are very, very large, though probably none of them will ever reach half the weight of their father.
